Come to Sydney and learn about Sports Medicine. This intensive one week course contains relevant practical information for general practitioners, emergency physicians, paediatricians, radiologists and military doctors. There is a lot more to Sports Medicine than musculoskeletal medicine.

The aim of this course is to provide knowledge and skills for medical practitioners to enhance their ability to deal with problems in sports medicine including sports injuries, exercise prescription and medical conditions in people who exercise.

The only sports medicine course offered by an Australian university medical faculty.

Workshops for physical examinations and for anatomical presentations.

This course emphasises practical procedures.
